

Doubled Die Discovery - Proof Abandoned 45 Million Silver Dollars Reality

PRESIDENT Johnson's surprise move to approve the minting of 45 million silver dollars has raised speculation in Washington that "the back of the silver coin shortage has been broken." A goal which Treasury officials predicted would be reached at mid-year 1965.

The announcement that the mint will begin production of the 1964-dated 45 million silver dollars appears as a certain prelude to the release of the Treasury's silver report, likely later this week.

The authority to produce silver dollars would have expired on July 1, hence the President's last minute decision, virtually one year after the bill had been approved by Congress. The move indicates that, at least in the eyes of the Administration, a satisfactory solution to the silver crisis has been found. The striking of 45 million silver dollars will require 32 million of hitherto much-needed silver.

The official statement designated distribution of the new cartwheel in parts of the country where: "the silver dollar has traditionally been used as a medium of exchange." It is predicted, however, that the new silver dollars will not remain in circulation for very long.

Some coin dealers have placed a tentative $5 value on the 1964-dated silver dollars, and certain Washington sources predicted that "their value as collectors items would be an immediate windfall."

Most Western states originally requested minting these 45 million silver dollars. Senator Mike Mansfield, Montana Democrat and Senate majority leader, was one of the sponsors of this authority.

Nevada's Senator Alan Bible also strongly supported the issuance of silver dollars, which are highly prized for gambling table use.

At press time, specifics on distribution were not available from the mint.

Treasury Silver Report

The long-awaited Treasury silver and coinage report to Congress may be released any day now according to a news story in American Metals Market of May 17. As outlined in earlier PACE issues, three basic alternatives are being studied viz., coins without silver, reduced silver content or a combination of the latter two proposals.

Salient points raised by AMM staff writer and analyst Freeman Bishop include:—The Treasury's report will be relayed by the White House to the Congress. It will contain findings and recommendations based on a study of the silver shortages requested by the Congress last year. Treasury Secretary Fowler indicated last week the report would not be completed this week, but that every effort was being made to clear the report to the White House so that it can be forwarded to the Congress within ten days.

—But the silver coin shortage continues to puzzle the nation. The Mint has been producing coins at a vastly accelerated rate, hoping to break the back of these shortages. The Treasury report will indicate that the Mint has caught up to a large extent with demand for coins, especially of pennies. Other coins, too, have reached the saturation point, the report is expected to say. The Kennedy half dollars are a notable exception. One reason for this likely is that in foreign lands the most-prized American memento available is this Kennedy half dollar.

—Silver dollars are traded mostly among collectors these days. But Treasury long ago threw in the towel on silver dollars and has no intention of minting additional silver dollars, unless by direct Congressional action.

—Many silver certificates are redeemed every day in silver dust at Treasury stations, many also are believed being held against the day when the Treasury quits redeeming at $1.29.

—The silversmiths vigorously oppose silver in coins on the premise that this use of silver will push prices higher. But some Capitol Hill experts believe the use of non-silver coins will have the opposite effect.

—No one knows just what will come about in U. S. silver currency when changes in the silver content are determined. The suggestion itself has been enough to drive coins into hiding. Announcement of the silver study's recommendations is expected from the White House along with recommendations to guide the Congress. When these proposals reach the House and Senate Banking and Currency Committees, wideopen discussions may clear some of the misunderstandings out of the silver air. But eventual Congressional action is not expected this year without top-pressure from the White House.

Silversmiths Guild

The Sterling Silversmiths Guild of America claim that any future rise in the price of silver would "bring widespread unemployment" in the silverware industry.

It was stated that between 1952 and 1953, the cost of silver rose by 52%, employment in the silverware industry declined and unit sales of sterling flatware slipped 48%. Sterling holloware was similarly affected.

1964 Doubled Die

The perpetual date "1964" on U. S. coinage may ultimately prove quite challenging to proof set and odddity collectors.

On the heels of the much-heralded 1964 Pointed Tail 9 Roosevelt dime discovered during the early part of 1964 now come recognized and clearly distinguishable doubled date, a doubled profile, and a doubled motto—ON THREE DIFFERENT DENOMINATIONS, MIND YOU.

The news of a 1964 doubled date was pinpointed on the Washington quarter denomination contained in the 1964 U. S. proof sets. According to Mr. Kermit R. Beebe of Beebe's Coin Shop & Supplies, 463 Main Street, Dunedin, Florida, some 30 sets containing the highly significant doubling have been discovered. The quarters actually shows a doubled motto, the word LIBERTY and date, and is somewhat reminiscent of the 1934 double motto quarter described by Frank J. Spadone in his work "Major Variety and Oddity Guide of U. S. Coins" (1934 type IV).

Concurrently with the quarter and in the same sets, doubled profile Jefferson nickel were discovered. In this instance the doubling is most pronounced in the chin area and is clearly distinguishable. The aforementioned discoveries have been concurred in by other coin dealers and were confirmed earlier in a Coin World story on May 19.

A doubled legend "United States of America" on the half dollar contained in proof sets was also reported by Robert Lane of Queens, New York. Although the examination of thousands of sets has only yielded some 30 identifiable doubled die specimens, chances are that with a mintage close to 4 million 1964 proof sets, additional discoveries could be made in the near future with most rewarding results to the happy finders.

In the meanwhile, the 1964 pointed tail 9 Roosevelt dime discovered and sponsored by Frank J. Spadone of New Jersey seems to rapidly gain widespread attention. All for the better, because 1964 U. S. coinage was beginning to shape up as a rather boring and uneventful proposition. Remember the 1960 small dates and 1955 double dates?

For the benefit of readers uninformed about the 1955 doubled die variety, we give the excellent definition of this occurrence by Mr.

Commemoratives From Collector's Standpoint

Part I, Columbian To Alabama 1892-1921

By: Christian F. Verbeke

ALTHOUGH a remote hope, U. S. commemorative coinage may be resumed some day, perhaps in the not too distant future, but at any rate certainly after the Nation's coinage/silver crisis is solved and the ultimate decision is known relative to U.S. Mint and Proof sets.

While shattering in implications, the idea of resuming commemorative coinage is not altogether devoid of logic because the time is not far off where somehow the prestige of U.S. coinage abroad may have to be revived by matching, if not in quantity at least in quality, foreign commemoratives now abundantly issued by numerous countries. Most regrettable, of course, is the outflow of valuable U.S. funds to foreign countries as a result of their stepped-up numismatic activities.

This opens the question of desirability of collecting commemoratives; it is being argued that as long as no new commemoratives are being struck the coins now issued and outstanding offer but limited appeal.

Yet nothing is further from the truth as each individual commemorative is a U.S. type coin in itself, regardless of discontinuation. Relatively speaking, commemorative U.S. coins are reasonably priced as widespread appeal seems to lack periodically for the reasons set forth earlier. In much earlier years, however, commemoratives were perennially plagued by speculative excesses, fortunately now as much as eradicated.

Columbian Half Dollar

No other single event has done as much for coin collecting in the U.S. than the Columbian Exposition of 1892. Aside from the fact that a commemorative half dollar was issued during 1892 and 1893, and in addition the Isabella quarter, it should be stressed that the great incentive for coin collecting was generated by the U.S. Mint's participation in the exhibits. In addition a wealth of coin collections both from collectors and dealers were offered to the public, often containing pieces rarely if ever before exhibited.

During the event in 1892 the Mint struck brass souvenir medals, sold by the thousands for a quarter each.

The Columbian commemorative coinage issue proper was somewhat of a flop; indeed as late as 1895, the Treasury offered the unsold portion at face value. It was not uncommon to see Columbian half dollars in circulation for many years to come.

The Isabella quarter issued at $1.00 proved to be less popular than the half dollar; indeed people preferred the latter because of its higher face value, while still and only paying $1.00. Of the 40,000 Isabella quarters only 24,000 were eventually sold while the balance returned to the Mint for melting.

Issued at $1, the Isabella quarters could be picked up from dealers at 35 cents each, at least for a while after the Exposition. Late in 1896 the quarter was worth $1.50, which prompted "The Numismatist" to write: "A decade hence a specimen is likely to fetch $10.00." This rather buoyant prediction was not to realize for another fifty years, however.

Mintmark collecting dates back to the same period and mainly resulted from the publication of "A Treatise on the Coinage of United States Branch Mints" by Augustus G. Heaton, one-time president of the American Numismatic Association.

Lafayette Dollar

The first and only commemorative silver dollar dated 1900, known as "Lafayette Dollar," was issued to raise funds for a statue of the popular French hero, General Lafayette; the coin was offered to the public at $2. The issue soon after turned out to be a disappointment when the dollar sold for $1.10 and sometimes at face value. Numismatic chroniclers of the period report the price break also caused price weakness in Isabella quarters.

Louisiana Purchase Dollar

Against this background it was not a big surprise, thus, to see the Louisiana Purchase commemorative gold dollar become a complete failure in 1902, as virtually 95 percent of the issue — both types, McKinley and Jefferson — returned to the melting pot. The Management of Exposition wrote at the time: "It has been officially decided by the Louisiana Purchase Exposition that the remainder of the Louisiana Gold Dollars will be returned to the mint, exchanged for other currency and converted into bullion. The sale of this coin in consideration of the large premium commanded for them, has been successful, but the number sold is but a portion of the entire issue of 250,000. The issue was of two types, Jefferson and McKinley, an equal number of each being coined.

Considering that the remainder will be destroyed and that the original price placed upon them, $3.00 each has and positively will be maintained, causes the Exposition Management to believe there will be an immediate increased sale largely, from those who have waited expecting to purchase them at a depreciated premium, and that they will be in popular demand for gift purposes during the Holidays.

That the price has been maintained and the remainder is to be destroyed gives to the purchaser a protection that has never been enjoyed with any other souvenir coin, and gives promise that the coin will increase in value.

In addition to various forms of jewelry mounts which have been furnished without cost with the Louisiana Dollars, there has been issued as companions, quarters and halves coined from gold mined in the Louisiana Territory. These fractional pieces have been supplied with the gold dollar at face, $3.75 for the set."

Lewis and Clark Dollar

The Lewis and Clark Exposition held in Portland, Oregon, opened in 1904 and this was the pretext for issuing the Lewis and Clark commemorative gold dollar, eminently more successful than its predecessors. The coin was offered at $2 and over one-third of the issue escaped the melting pot; all this much to the pleasure of today's commemorative collector delighted with a 10,000 mintage — a far cry from 2 and 3 million proof sets, for example.

Panama Pacific Exposition

The Exposition held in 1915 was the pretext for the issuance of what is unquestionably the most unusual, although not the scarcest certainly, U.S. coin viz., an octagonal $50 gold piece. The Panama Pacific set of 5 coins in addition comprised specimens of a silver half dollar, a gold dollar, a $2.50 gold piece, and the round version of the $50 gold piece. The coins were cased in a copper frame, and some one thousand sets were thus assembled; unfortunately only 300 sets were sold at the time. Hence the relative scarcity of the set today.

McKinley Memorial Dollar

This issue was struck in 1916 to finance the erection of a memorial to President William McKinley, assassinated in 1901. Originally offered at $3, half of the 1916 issue was returned to the Mint for melting, while approximately 10,000 copies were sold in bulk to well-known coin dealer, B. Max Mehl of Fort Worth; the latter died in the early 1950's.

Illinois Centennial

Issued to commemorate the centennial of the State of Illinois, the coin's particular interest was the Lincoln profile obverse, a rather belated homage, in fact, to the National hero. The issue did not meet with an overwhelming success, although no coins were melted down. Ultimately the balance of unsold coins was stored in a Springfield bank where it did not appear till the early 1930's during the bank's collapse. The issue was then liquidated at prices below its issuance price of $1.00.

Maine Centennial

Issued for the centennial of the State of Maine in 1920, the coin was designed by Anthony de Francisci and offered at $1.00. The entire issue of some 50,000 pieces was gradually absorbed by collectors demand, the sale of these coins was conducted by the State Treasurer of Maine.

Pilgrim Tercentenary

Struck to commemorate the three hundredth anniversary of the landing of the Pilgrims, the coin was issued at $1.00 and distributed by the Pilgrim Tercentenary Commission through the Shawmut National Bank at Boston.

The issue was relatively successful in its first year of issuance in 1920, the second issue of 1921 met with a less favorable fate — in all some 128,000 coins of both vintages were returned for melting.

It is important to note that this coin was struck at Philadelphia, not to be confused with the initial "D" (Cyrus E. Dallin, the designer) which appears under Governor Bradford's elbow on the obverse. The initial has sometimes been mistaken for a Denver mintmark.

Missouri Centennial

The Missouri Centennial half dollar emerges as a most interesting issue as it used intentional gimmickery in design to promote the sale. This commemorative half dollar was issued to commemorate the one hundredth anniversary of the admission of the State of Missouri into the Union. The coins were offered initially at $1.00 by means of large display ads.

When the success of the enterprise began to taper off, the promoters of the commemorative made the following announcement: "All of the unsold coins of the design previously illustrated

MONKEY MONEY

A number of numismatists believe that an "ape's face" can be discerned on all 1965 CANADIAN COINS. The face is alleged to be visible from the rear of the Queen's hairline on down. Could this be another 1953 "Devil's Dollar" problem?

THE ELECTRONIC HEART

On Friday, May 14, the following message was transmitted on the Professional Coin Dealers (teletype) Exchange:

"TO ALL MEMBERS OF P.C.D.E.

"After fully investigating the Eliot Cashdan problem, we of P.C.D.E. have decided to do all within our power to affect Eliot Cashdan's immediate release.

"We propose to finance bail by means of a special fund to be handled by P.C.D.E. through an attorney. Any and all monies collected in the fund will not be turned over to anyone except the proper authorities in Mexico through the efforts of authorized persons and the American Consul upon the concurrent release of Eliot Cashdan.

"This is the nucleus of our decision and if anyone wants further information, please feel free to call us. If you want to help please advise via tape and forward checks to the N.Y. office of P.C.D.E., Inc."

P.C.D.E. members from all parts of the country and Canada have responded with amounts ranging from a minimum of $100.00 to as much as $500.00.

Approximately five thousand dollars has been raised and Eliot Cashdan has been contacted with the news that he may soon be released on bail due to the generosity of his brother coin dealers.

The gimmick saved the issue and all 5,000 coins of the 2*4 variety sold in record time, the idea would be followed by other instances, however, as we shall shortly see.

Alabama Centennial

The coin was issued in 1920 to commemorate the centennial of Alabama's entrance into the Union. Initially offered at $1, a sales device similar to the Missouri Centennial was used viz., after an initial sale of some 60,000 pieces a new and "special issue" was announced, featuring a small 2 x 2 in the obverse field. The enterprise proved a big success as 6,000 half dollar pieces found buyers immediately.

Delmas Ford, excerpted from his book "United States Major and Minor Mint Error Types" under heading Shifted Hub Die: "The master die impression is reproduced, (incuse and in reverse) on working dies by means of bumping the two dies together at great pressure, several times. After each contact the working die hardens to a point that it is necessary to place it in an annealing oven in order to soften it to prevent shattering when the succeeding blow is struck. The defective working die which produced the 1955/56 shift cents was caused by a slight misalignment of the two dies when they were again

Czechoslovakia Abandons Proof Project

In a letter received on May 17, dated May 12, originating from ARTIA, the Czech Foreign Trade Corporation reports: "We wish to confirm our cable of May 4, running as follows: 'OUR APRIL 22 PROOF COIN POSTPONED PLEASE DO NOT ADVERTISE LETTER FOLLOWS.'"

"Since our State Mint has been unable to supply the Kcs 25.00 Silver Coin, issued on the occasion of the 20th Anniversary of the end of war and the Liberation of Czechoslovakia, in proof packing, we had to abandon the sale of this coin in proof condition as anticipated.

"We assume that you will publish an article about the above coin and therefore, we sent you a cable informing you about the matter, as we should like the American reading public to get correct information.

"We hope to be able to supply some of our next issues in proof condition and in the affirmative we shall inform you in time."

Double Price of Gold

According to a Reuters dispatch from Paris, French monetary expert Jacques Rueff has reiterated his call for a return in essence to the gold standard, and the opening of "serious talks at the highest level before it is too late," to prevent an economic crisis in the Western world.

Mr. Rueff, who recently took part in various discussions in New York on the same subject, said he favored an approximate doubling of the price of gold. (See PACE No. 17, May 8, 1965.)

Space City Averages:

HOW THEY ARE OBTAINED

With close to 1,500 separate statistics appearing each week in PACE, a need exists to express this information in graphic form for busy readers.

We are currently charting eight different coin series each week as you see below. These charts are based on Space City Averages, an arbitrarily chosen group of rolls which we feel are representative of the total for that series.

To be included in the Space City Averages rolls are chosen on the basis of three factors: (1) their trading is constant, (2) they are widely held, and (3) they are indicative of the series.

It is obvious infrequently traded items, closely held items, and extremes in the series would not serve this purpose.

Each week the statistical staff of PACE prepares these averages from the information obtained on The United States Coin Exchange transactions.

The amount expressed in the Space City averages is the total market bid prices for the rolls included in the averages. This is a dollar figure and is compared with previous week, month, and year figures for analysis.

The high and low for 1964 is also shown.

MARKET SUMMARY

MAY 19, 1965

By Russell Brown

PROOF sets from 1950 to date seemed to be the only items in demand this week as the market found new lows for the year in five denominations. On the bright side, the headlong decline of the cents and nickels seems to have slowed considerably with many dealers holding the line on further price reductions.

Only the late date proofs shared in a wave of comparative prosperity which saw offerings of the earlier sets at materially reduced prices. The sets from 1936 through 1942 uniformly lost two to five percent with the exception of the 1938 set which seems to be in short supply, thanks to the raids on this date for the first proof Jeff. The 1951 and 1950 sets were requested heavily and rose five dollars and two dollars respectively.

Lincoln cents showed only a two to one ratio of declines over advances as the 1960-P small date came back with a ten dollar gain. However, purchases of these coins were made only upon receipt of a guarantee that they were of sufficiently high quality for single sales. The rolls in the 1930 to 1940 period continue to go without buyers and as a result the prices on these issues continue to decline.

In the Jeffersons the 1950 issues were heavily requested at prior week levels and the rest of the issues traded quietly with no major changes. The 1942-S jumped some ten dollars due to several large purchases, but this was the only "action" in the series.

Roosevelt dimes are taking their licks this week and suffered some fifteen declines. With the exception of a ten dollar loss by the 1951-S, however, there was no major changing of bid and ask levels.

Washington quarters slipped quietly lower with no trading of any volume. The 1955-D probably saw as many transactions as the rest of the series put together, and managed to lose four dollars. Also on the losing end were the 1947-S, dropping $5 and the 1944-D, losing $10.

A fairly large selloff of the keys in the Franklin series saw the prices of those worthies drop off an average of five percent. Four issues lost $10 or more in active trading. The 1953-S chose to buck the trend and register a $5 gain. It was indeed a trend since declines exceeded advances twenty one to three.

The dollar groups saw some rather wild price corrections which were probably overdue. While the late date issues seem inclined to inch their way higher, quite a few of the keys and semi keys are tumbling down by large amounts. In the Morgans, offsetting several good gains by the 1893 and 1894 Philadelphia issues were a number of $25 losses, scored principally by the San Francisco issues.

The Peace dollars were offered at lower levels on a series wide basis with a number of declines in three figures. It must be pointed out that this series is very thinly held and that price fluctuations will always be present when the market is going either up or down. For instance, though the quoted price of the 1934-S by the roll is now $4,400, a buyer with enough capital could probably force the price to double that with very few purchases.

In the Canadian market everyone is talking about the "monkey face" that appears in the Queen's hair if the coins are held just right. The speculators are, of course, hoping that the coins will be called in or that the dies will soon be changed to remove the design as was the "devil head" removed from Canadian currency several years ago. We await with interest further developments on this issue.

The Market Opinion

Already the dealers across the country are offering $3,000 for the first sacks of the new dollars to come forth from the mint and we imagine that mint officials are tearing their hair trying to figure out a way to get the coins into the hands of the people.

Since such a distribution will be impossible, we suggest that the mint face the facts of life and go ahead and sell the coins for $3,000 and make a profit for a change. Then they might just as well sell out the other cartwheels they are holding for three to five dollars apiece and use the money obtained to maybe do something radical like making 1965 or 1966 proof sets.

Still no word on whether this year's Santa Season money will be silver, plastic or uranium. Maybe if they wait long enough the problem will go away.

Venetian coins and the gold and silver "oselle" and medallions that were also used. The Venetian collection begins with the first coins to be minted at Venice, bearing on one side the effigy of St. Mark in the act of handing over the standard to the Doge, and concludes with the hand-minted coin of 1806, in the reign of Francis II of Austria. Among the medallions is one that the famous engraver Spinelli offered in 1571 to a Venetian who had distinguished himself at the battle of Lepanto and another minted in honour of Giuditta Pasta, known as the "nightingale of Europe."

The exhibition also showed coins bearing the signatures of magistrates who lived at the same time as Dante, and Guelph and Ghibelline coins of various republics. Visitors were able to examine coins of the communes of Brescia, Cremona, Reggio, Parma and Piacenza and others issued by small mints at such places as Cortemiglia, Asti, Chivasso and Tortona, the coins of Milan and those of Lodi, which remained loyal to the Ghibellines and continued to issue money in the name of Frederick II. Great interest was shown in the stupendous golden ducats of Pisa, with the roman eagle standing on a capital, the florins of Florence, the coins of Padua (with the eagle of Carinthius), coins of the Bishop-Princes of Trento and many other valuable examples.

DESIGNS FOR DECIMAL COINAGE

The Coinage Design Advisory Committee of the New Zealand Decimal Currency Board is to meet on April 1 to begin considering designs suggested by N.Z. and British designers for the reverse (tail side) of the six new coins which will come into use when New Zealand changes to its decimal currency in July 1967. (There will be two bronze coins in the series, the one cent piece and the two cent. The other four coins, of cupro-nickel, will be the 5, 10, 20 and 50 cent pieces). The chairman of the Design Committee, Mr. J. N. Searle said in Wellington on March 26 that it was hoped to have the designs for the tail side of the coins settled by October so that production of the 200 million coins needed by N.Z. at the time of the change-over could begin as soon as possible.—Press, Christchurch.

(The obverse (head side) of the new coins will show the coinage effigy of the Queen designed by Mr. Arnold Machin, R.A. of London, and approved by Her Majesty last year.)

Half-Crowns as Exports

Mr. Searle also said that the possibility of the New Zealand half-crown becoming a valuable export item after it is withdrawn from circulation is being investigated by the Board. Withdrawal of the coin begins in May. He said that numismatists had asked about the possibility of the Treasury keeping half-crown pieces for collectors. Information was then sought on the prices which could be obtained overseas for N.Z. half-crowns. It was found that extra fine uncirculated 1963 coins were fetching 2.25 dollars from collectors in the United States, with extra fine circulated half-crowns being worth 1 dollar and 1961 uncirculated extra fine half-crowns 16 dollars. Even 1950 coins classified as "very good" were bringing 80 cents. Mr. Searle said that the Reserve Bank of N.Z. had been asked if it had any deposits of uncirculated half-crowns and coin dealers were being approached to investigate how many half-crowns the American market could absorb without a heavy drop in their price.—Press, Christchurch.

A NEW CROWN FOR ENGLAND

On the 16th of March Parliament voted and approved the striking of a Crown commemorating the late Sir Winston Churchill. The Crown will be struck at the Royal Mint in England. Crowns will be in BU mint condition. However according to the spokesman from World Proof Numismatic Association, there is a good chance the same Crown will be struck in proof. First Crowns will be released around June of this year. Further information can be obtained by writing WPNA at 1429 Hawthorne St., Pittsburgh, Penna. 15201 — USA.

American collectors ordering uncirculated Mint sets direct from the Bank of Foreign Trade of the USSR, may get stuck with sticky coins.

Russia does not package their Mint sets. Sometimes the coins are taped to a card, other times they just wrap them in plain paper. Coins mounted to cardboard with pressure sensitive tape, may leave an adhesive residue on the coins' surface.

The firm has received many complaints from collectors who have ordered Mint sets direct from Russia, that they cannot completely remove the adhesive residue. We suggest that the residue can be easily removed with 'rubber cement thinner'. The "thinner" is available in most stationery and art supply stores.

The company advises collectors to DEMAND that their coins are not taped, but individually wrapped in plain paper to reduce abrasion in transit.

For Sale, BU Silver Dollar Bags

TODAY'S BEST INVESTMENT

As you know, the Government is contemplating legislation to reduce or eliminate silver from all coins. This should have been done long ago, as the used rate of use will be exhausted within two years. Silver continues to be Government's current silver stockpile is dangerously low, and at the continued in industry at a far greater rate than new silver is being mined. Naturally, the Government cannot control the price of silver when its own stockpile is gone. All this points to the possibility that in the very near future we will see a sharp increase in the price of silver.

Silver dollars are especially attractive as an investment, since their face value equals their silver content, and numismatically they are scarce and in great demand. I have available at this time the following BU bags:

1884-O, $1,325.00 1880-S, $1,400.00 1882-S, $1,450.00 1882-O, $1,600.00
1887-P, $1,325.00 1879-S, $1,450.00 1881-O, $1,600.00 1888-O, $1,800.00

The last three dates mentioned are especially good buys, as they are quite rare compared with any of the five most common dates. I don't recommend buying the cheapest BU bags, as they exist in a far greater quantity than those which can be obtained for just a little higher premium. If you are interested in the silver content only, then I would suggest buying a bag of mixed circulated dollars, which I have available at $1,200.00 each. These bags will average Extra Fine condition, with no coin's being less than Very Fine. The majority of coins in these mixed circulated bags are between 1879 and 1884.

If you want to buy any of these bags, please send me a cashier's check for the full price, and I will make shipment by Air Freight (which is cheaper than Railway Express), Collect for shipping charges.

However, there is another way to purchase these coins if you would not want to tie up a large amount of money in this type of investment. These dollars are being held by my bank as collateral against a face value loan ($1,000 for each bag of 1,000 silver dollars). You may buy any bag simply by paying me the premium value (the value over face amount) and assuming the existing loan. My bank charges 6% interest, plus $1.00 per month per bag as storage fee. This amounts to $72.00 a year per bag. Therefore, if you send me the premium, plus $72.00, I will send you a contract guaranteeing you title to the particular bags you purchase.

Of course, you may pay off the loan at any time, and should you do so within a year, I will send you a pro rata refund on the interest and storage.
